

Research Relevance and Potential Impact

This research enriches the current literature on knowledge sharing by empirically testing the relationship between the antecedents and consequences of knowledge sharing within a new cultural and industrial context. It also addresses a gap in the literature, where the focus has traditionally been on macro-organizational outcomes of knowledge sharing, e.g. financial and operational performance, rather than micro-organizational outcomes such as individual job performance. This study also attempted to explain how knowledge sharing behavior could influence individual job performance through the mediating effect of innovative behavior and task-focused citizenship behavior.

Career Aspirations

In pursuing my doctoral studies, my goal was to change career and join the academia as a faculty. I have joined Abu Dhabi University as Assistant Professor of Management and aspire to be active in both teaching and research fields.
