Abstract

The study deals with several points and questions relates to the execution of arbitral award. The main question is about the arbitral award that can be compulsory executed and the necessity to rectify such an award to have an execution award. The new subject in this thesis is the reading of the New York Convention and the understanding of the judiciary - specifically the UAE- towards the execution of an arbitral award which another judgment has been made that challenge the validity of the award. Specially with the common wrong translation of the New York Convention.
