

جامعة الإمارات العربية المتحدة
United Arab Emirates University

The College of Graduate Studies and the College of Law Cordially Invite You to a

Master Thesis Defense

Entitled

Criminal Protection of Credit Cards in UAE Comparative Law

By

Mahra Helal Mutlaq Abboud Al Dhaheri

Faculty Advisor

Dr. Fatiha Mohamed Gourari, Public Law Department

College of Law

Date& Venue

10:00 AM

Wednesday 28/11/2018

Room 0012, Grand floor, H2 Building

Abstract:

The main topic of the thesis is the statement of the significance and nature of the electronic credit card, its importance and its distinction from other loyalty cards. It also explained the most important crimes against credit cards by the holder, whether in terms of the arbitrary use of the card in cash withdrawals without considering the actual balance of the card or the repay capacity of expenditure.

On the other hand, the illegal use by the card holder, such as the extraction of a card with forged documents, the use of a canceled or expired card, or the card declared falsely for loss or theft, as well as crimes committed by third parties and criminal liability For these crimes, such as obtaining incorrect numbers and statements of identity cards for the purpose of their use, appropriation of third party funds and services available to himself or others, in addition to the crime of publishing or republishing credit card numbers and statements, and explaining the responsibility of others to use a valid credit card in cash withdrawal or in fulfillment Procurement and services and finally showed the responsibility of others in the fraud and use of credit card through the study of the provisions of the Federal Penal Code and the law of crimes against the UAE information technology and the adequacy of these provisions in the fight against crimes that fall on the cards Credit facilities.

Keywords: Federal Penal Code . Law of crimes against the UAE information technology.