Abstract

The importance of maritime collision is particularly among the risks of maritime navigation, because of the large number of vessels that crosses the sea with a high speed.

The condition of maritime collision that UAE law has dealt with, is that the collision between two naval vessels, a naval vessel and an inland navigation boat, in addition to a maritime collision between two floating vessels.

Most modern maritime law has dealt with maritime conflict in their laws in accordance with international treaties in this regard with a view to determining liability and the party causing the collision. The law of the United Arab Emirates has took the collision because of the force majeure, as well as the suspicion of the causes of the collision and the accidentally collision either by one ship or the cause is from both parties. Federal law dealt with jurisdiction as provided for in article 325 and when such cases were dealt with in article 326.

International rules to prevent the collisions in the sea, whether related to lights, signs and signals of sound and optical as well as the base of the traffic on the right.

The liability of the maritime carrier means that there shall be a contract for the carriage of such goods either by coastal navigation or by the contract of carriage, And the role of marine insurance, which revolves around the ship and is the mainstay of its maritime transport practice. The judiciary essentially achieves special interests for the adversaries by reforming the results of the violation of the legal rule, whether for criminal or civil prosecution .

Finally, we arrive at the basic premise of maritime insurance, namely the fulfillment of claims, conclusion, findings and recommendations.
