Abstract

The economic growth witnessed by the world in general has imposed on countries and governments many challenges in order to keep pace with this economic growth and to go with the wheel of economic development, which required the countries and governments of the world to develop laws that regulate the economic feudal and contribute to its development and the rights of investment owners and partners, And at the same time to protect the public interest and balance between the requirements of economic growth and the requirements of national sovereignty on the capabilities of the state and economic sector, the existence of strong legislation governing the economic sector and investment in any country that makes it a safe place for investment .

Therefore, the United Arab Emirates did not fail to realized the importance of this economic development. This was witnessed when the regulator issued the law No.2 of 2018 on commercial companies, where the law affirmed the official principle in the contract of the company and the importance of complying with formalities of the company contract as designed by the law. Therefore this research addressed the simulation of company contract, such as: definition of simulation, the condition of simulation, the effect of simulation in the company contract and the percentage of local shareholders, the different positions of the UAE court judgment regarding the simulation and the effect of transactions done by the company.

Keywords: definition of simulation, the condition of simulation, the effect of simulation in the company contract and the percentage of local shareholders, expanded direction and narrow direction.
