

DEAN'S MESSAGE

The 21st century university must take on a number of roles for today's students. Through a keen commitment to teaching and state-of-the-art research in a fast-changing world, the modern university must prepare students to be confident, knowledgeable, and communicative professionals in their chosen fields. The College of Humanities and Social Sciences at the United Arab Emirates University (UAEU) achieves precisely these objectives, while also preparing students to be contributing and vital members of a truly civilized society.

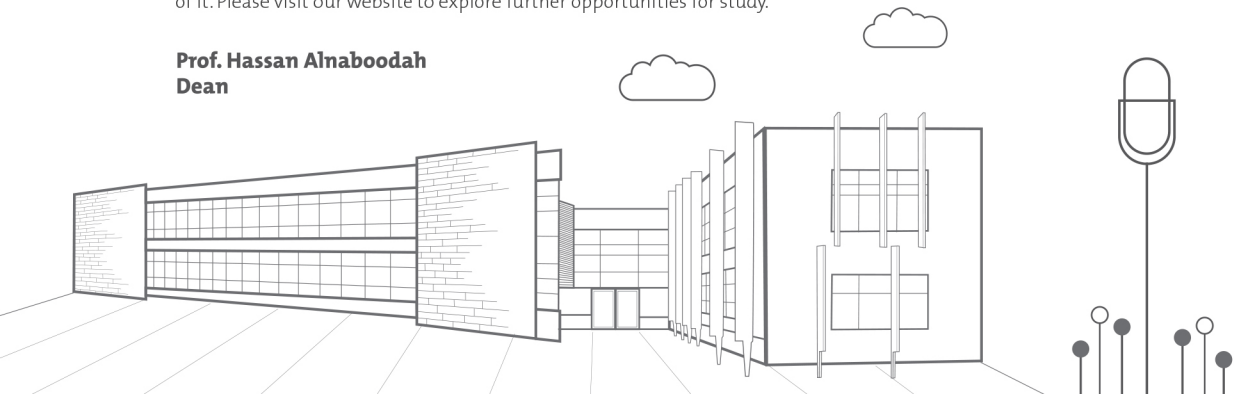

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is a unique division of the university that combines and fosters the best of human qualities with the best of scientific skills. The humanities cultivate in students a better facility with language, literature, and critical thinking, as well as a knowledge of history, architecture, and other important human achievements—all of which are useful in a variety of professions. The social sciences equip students with skillful analytical methodologies important for contributing to a healthy society in specific fields.

Our aim at CHSS is to prepare our graduates to fulfill key roles as leaders and contributors in their current and future communities. To achieve this aim, we have designed a curriculum that will strengthen and refine the crucial skills students need to fulfill their destiny: skills in communication, critical thinking, and creative endeavor. Furthermore, many of our programs offer opportunities for students to participate in internships which give them hands-on learning experiences that will help them transition into their chosen career.

We have selectively chosen outstanding faculty from around the world to help meet the high standards we have set ourselves. Our faculty come from some of the best universities worldwide, are known for their academic excellence and industry savvy, and are committed researchers. But just as important, our faculty are student-centered and enjoy their roles as mentors, providing both informed instruction and personal guidance for their students. Similarly, our students are keen and passionate about their studies, and participate in a wide variety of student clubs and activities outside the classroom.

Through endowing students with communicative, analytic, interpretive, and interpersonal skills, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences promises students the opportunity for both professional development and personal growth, and ensures them every chance of becoming significant, contributing citizens in their respective future roles. Our college provides a world-class liberal arts education, and we are extremely proud to offer you the chance to be part of it. Please visit our website to explore further opportunities for study.

STUDENT TESTIMONIALS

"At the CHSS, I was a Bachelor's degree student in English Literature and later became a Ph.D Candidate. The college provided me with many opportunities to develop my skills and expand my knowledge base. While at the CHSS I also managed to have articles published in the English Literature Department's 'Voices in English Magazine' and in the Al Ain Times newspaper. Also when a Ph.D candidate I had an article published in a peer-reviewed journal. I'd like to acknowledge the college's support in these endeavors and in encouraging my participation in several local and international conferences."

"I entered Translation Studies because now we are experiencing the peak of the communication era. Majoring in translation helped me to enhance my communicative skills in an effective manner. Professors equipped me with one-to-one skills that I use in my everyday life. As a Translation Studies graduate, I am now a valuable asset when it comes to facilitating Arabic-English conversations."
