

So Many, So Soon .. with Windows 8

The Metro Style

The IT Technology market is very dynamic, inspiring and competitive. By 2012 Microsoft will launch Windows 8, which will run on tablets, PC's and may be on Phones as well.

There are many new and enhanced features in the new windows system, The user Interface is for sure one of them in which Metro style is replacing the old start Menu, and Live tiles will be replacing icons.

Tiles is not only easier way to run applications, but also with enough space to get basic information such as weather info without the needs to open its application.

In addition, switching between applications is really fast and fluent, and with the "Snap In" feature you will be able to view two applications at the same time.

Furthermore, the file system will be there where you can reach your documents, desktop and hard disk files.

Some other expected features are :

- Picture Password in which entering the password will be scratching on 3 places instead of typing it .
- Native USB 3.0 Support which is distinguished with the speed of transferring data between computer and external peripherals estimated to reach 10 times faster than current speeds.

- Windows Store where it will be the only place you can get Metro style apps
- Windows To Go; Windows 8 can be run from a USB-connected drive, such as a flash drive.

This was a brief introduction for Windows 8, hoping that the final version will be full of new, useful and exciting features and applications.

Hello, United Arab Emirates

The Official Apple Online Store is now available to you

Recently Apple allowed users across the UAE to shop online for all its products such as iPhone, iPad, iPod and Mac products, with a special offer of free delivery on products purchased. Furthermore, the prices are lower by 20% - 25% than the average retail price and one can obtain some "extras" that resellers can't offer. Students, teachers and education professionals from the participating educational institutions can save money on the online purchase of Apple products using the store's Educational pricing.

Among other benefits, the online store will allow its users to customize their Macs, by inserting their own specifications for memory and drives among other options before buying them, and let them get their iPad, iPhone and iPod engraved for free and sent as beautifully wrapped gift to others. The store also has a range of Apple accessories and Apple specialists available to answer questions about products.
