

Maritime safety an international responsibility: Legal experts

International legal experts stated that ensuring international maritime safety is the collective responsibility of all countries while pointing out that international law criminalises any actions that negatively affect sea travel through straits, seas and oceans, and causes harm to individuals and groups.

Published on MAY 14
2019

