

Adults at risk of premature mid-life crisis in the UAE, study suggests

While the global average age of people who undergo a mid-life crisis has traditionally been between 45 and 60, new research suggests that it can start as early as age 38. The UAE is one of the countries where adults are at risk of premature mid-life crisis, according to a study by the United Arab Emirates University in Al Ain.

Published on January 22
2019

UAEUNews

uae_u_news

uae_u_news

TheUAEUMedia

@uaeunews