

3D printed robot can help save human lives

Fully-operated robots could soon replace humans in dangerous operations thanks to new research developed by researchers at the College of Information Technology at the United Arab Emirates University

Published on July 25
2019

